Indiana Community Bank Tops Goal!

Collects More Than 500 Used Cell Phones

Elkhart and Goshen, IND. – (Nov. 3, 2011) – Indiana Community Bank beat its goal of collecting at least 500 used cell phones for soldiers by collecting close to 550 phones.

“This is an amazing, heart-warming success story for everyone involved,” said Douglas Johnston president and CEO of Indiana Community Bank, “a true display of the patriotic spirit in the communities we serve.

“Thanks to the generosity of our customers, employees and our communities across Elkhart County,” he continued, “we have surpassed our goal, allowing even more soldiers serving overseas to be well connected with their loved ones in the States.”

Indiana Community Bank announced in July that it was hoping to collect at least 500 used cell phones in conjunction with the Cell Phones for Soldiers national program whose mission is to “help our troops call home.” Through this program, money generated from the sale of the recycled cell phones is used to buy calling cards for troops overseas.
